Email Marketing Tool Updates

This sprint saw the release of several highly requested features for the Email Marketing tool. Let's take you through them one tab at a time.

Resend Campaign Options

Are you looking for a way to resend a campaign to users who didn't open it the first time? Or do you want to send reminders to the same group of subscribers by adding a new date to the same campaign? We've got you covered with the Resend Campaign Option, which allows you to resend a campaign multiple times easily. Simply select the resend audience and add dates. Your audience options are: Didn't Open, Didn't Click, Original Audience (sends the campaign to the full original audience), and Current Audience (includes any updated members added or removed from the smart list).

To resend your campaign, in Step 2, you can select "Resend Campaign".

The screenshot shows the 'Campaign Settings' step in a multi-tabbed interface. The tabs are: 'Choose Your Design', 'Campaign Settings' (active), 'Email Content', 'Review Email Campaign', and 'Recipients'. The main heading is 'Step 2 of 4 - Campaign Settings'. Below this, there are several input fields: 'Email Campaign Name' with the value 'Resend campaign', 'Permalink:', and 'Send Date' with the value '03/01/2024 04:30 AM' and '(UTC-06:00) Central Time (US & Canada)'. At the bottom, there is a section titled 'Resend Campaign' with a sub-heading 'Resend Campaign' and a description: 'You can set this email campaign to resend using this option automatically. You can send it to a subset of the original audience or everyone in the original list.' Below the description is a checkbox labeled 'Resend Campaign' which is currently unchecked.

When you select that, the new features will open, allowing you to choose the audience and set as many dates as you need.

What's next on the Email Marketing horizon? Better template options, hopefully with a template builder!

Better Multi-Viewing Prevention

When a user watches a video on CE21, they are typically unable to launch a second video because the new viewer will overtake the same tab as the previous viewer. Some users found ways to get around this and launch multiple viewers to get credit from multiple courses simultaneously. We have prevented this by tracking any viewer launch from a person's account. This will prevent them from accessing via different browsers and tabs, if they are on different devices, etc. If we see that their account is engaged in another video, we will show them this message on the new viewer that is opened, and the video will be paused until they decide. If they choose this new viewer, the other video will pause, showing this message instead. This viewer will close if they choose to Return to the Original Program.

If you impersonate the user, you will not interfere with their viewer interaction or receive this message as it is not tracked as actual participation.

New Tools for Child Groups

We recognize that every Child Group, known as Chapters, Committees, and Sections in our system, has distinct characteristics that may differ from membership to membership. To assist you in clarifying to your members how your sub-groups operate, we have introduced some new tools and updates that enable them to manage, join, and leave these groups more efficiently.

Customize the verbiage for Child Group access

Your members will see the information about their child group from within the parent group on their account in the catalog.

You can now edit:

1. The Question Set button label
2. The short description for your sub-group so your users have a better understanding of your process.
3. The Sub Group button label.

To edit these items, navigate to the Settings tab of the Parent group. From there, go to the Button Labels tab to find the options for relabeling.

Tools for Child Group Management

This new sprint changes how members can join and manage their access to eligible Child Groups. When they click the Child Group button, they will be redirected to a page where they can view all the subgroups available based on their membership in the parent group. They can join multiple groups at once by checking the boxes and saving the changes. Also, they can cancel their memberships here according to the settings set in the parent group.

Renew or Repost a Classified Ad with Ease

Users posting Classified Ads on your site can now easily repost or renew their ads with just one button in their Classified Ads table. If users want to extend the time to display their ad on your site, they can simply click the "Renew" button. On the other hand, if a user has marked their ad as "Sold or Completed," they will see a "Repost" button instead of a "Renew" button. Clicking on either button will load the fee plan into their cart so they can pay for it again. If the user doesn't change the original ad you have already approved, we will post it immediately. However, if they make any changes, you will receive a notification to approve the ad as usual.

Once they have renewed or reposted, the original line is removed, and the ad shows at the top of the list with the most recent renewal/repost date, allowing them to track the same ad in one row. The poster can show or hide the ad history by clicking the "Show History" button.

Notifications

- You can now access email reminder templates via a link on the information tab of the product where the email is located.
- All pending payment orders (Pending check, PO, Pay Later, and Pending ACH) will now receive any event reminders before/after showtime, at archive, after purchase, before/after expiration, and before/after credit expiration.
